“At-Home” Teaching and Learning with Young Children

School districts and childcare centers across the country find themselves with daunting new challenges these days. As teaching and learning move into the home, supporting families and children is unfamiliar territory for many educators who serve young children.

Join Frog Street for an important webinar as we offer guidance and best practices specifically focused on young children and at-home e-learning. Learn to help parents provide effective learning opportunities with the resources available in the home, digital and non-digital. This is a must-attend event to gain practical knowledge to help navigate this uncharted terrain!
